Cox Hallett Wilkinson (CHW) announced that a new management structure for the firm will be implemented with effect from January 1, 2007.

The firm will be led by a management team comprising Lorren Wilson, David Kessaram and Ernest Morrison, with Lorren Wilson assuming the role of Managing Partner.

Mr. Wilson explained, "David Cooper has done an incredible job leading us to this point, having overseen an extremely successful merger with Hollis & Co as well as the explosive growth of the firm in all departments. David initially agreed to undertake the role of Managing Partner for a period of 2 years but ended up doing it for 3. We owe him a tremendous debt of gratitude."

He went on to comment, "The new management team is tasked to usher in new initiatives during 2007 that are designed to help the firm capitalize on its current position in the local and international market and to advance CHW's next steps in its planned evolution as one of Bermuda's leading law firms."
